These Years Are-

Learning to live united and happy;

Living to love and feel it expressed;

Expressing each thought that its weight may be measured;

Measuring one's works that the future may use them;

Finally bringing a token of service to the world-from the light that shone on us.

Mr. E. D. Humann, Superintendent of Aurora schools.

Members of the class of 1965:

Your class, the "Seventy-Eighth Class", has the distinction of being the largest class in the history of the school to graduate from the Aurora High School. It is the purpose of the A-Roar-In, published by your class, to capture and preserve for posterity the events, accomplishments, acquaintances, and scenes of the past school year.

It is the sincere hope of your school that you have also captured the intangible values of spirit and intellect that your school represents. It is also the hope of your school that you will have acquired the basis of knowledge that will enable you to adjust more readily in a fast-changing world of automation, world competition, and space travel.

Sincerely,

E. D. Humann

Murders do attract attention

Will the guilty one please stand

The Junior class, under the direction of Mrs. Wilford Bonnell, presented a mystery-comedy, "Bull in a China Shop". The play centered around homicide detective Dennis O'Finn and six elderly ladies who stayed at a boarding house run by Miss Hildegard. Detective O'Finn, a handsome Irishman, lived across the street from the ladies. They kept close watch on O'Finn's activities and did everything in their power to attract him. However, O'Finn payed them no heed. The ladies resorted to homicide, and O'Finn was called in to investigate the death of Miss Elizabeth. In the merry-go-round of questioning which ensued, O'Finn discovered that the five remaining ladies all seemed to know that Elizabeth was poisoned but that no one except the guilty party knew who did it.

Detective O'Finn is "stumped" until newspaper reporter Jane Rogers, who had come to write up the homicide, tells him that he is the motive for the murders. O'Finn tried to solve the problem by ignoring the ladies. This action merely precipitated the death of Miss Nettie.

When O'Finn visited Miss Birdie, Miss Amantha, Miss Lucy, and Miss Hildegard; he discovered that his attentions were even more jealously coveted. However, by fending off the ladies' attentions for a few moments, O'Finn was able to work some of the clues together. He was aided in his endeavors by his assistant, Kramer, by the fingerprint expert, Johnson, and by the ladies who were only too eager to answer questions.

O'Finn was finally able to ascertain the identity of the murderer. He hoped that this would end the deaths of the sweet elderly ladies. Miss Hildegard was revealed as the "criminal"; and she, happily and possessively, allowed herself to be taken to jail by O'Finn.

My, he's even more handsome than my poor husband was!

SENIOR CLASS PRESENTS "OUR GIRLS"

"Meet Auntie". N. Salmon as Jessie, D. Toss as Francis, W. Roblee as Vivian.

Elmer and Mildred Lovejoy have three red-blooded American sons named "Vivian", "Francis", and "Jessie". These names are used as a disguise to prevent an eccentric Aunt Jessie in England from knowing that her niece, Mildred Lovejoy, had boys instead of girls. In such an event, Aunt Jessie promised to disinherit the family from her considerable fortune. Since Mildred and Elmer believed Aunt Jessie would never return to the United States, the "names" seemed a simple solution to the problem; and the money was needed by Elmer to expand his business and to send Hulda, the maid to Sweden to marry Henrik.

On the eve of Vivian's sixteenth birthday, a letter from Aunt Jessie informing Mildred and Elmer that she will be arriving in a few days to present Vivian personally with his $5,000 check, creates havoc. Elmer solves the problem by persuading the boys to dress and act as girls during Aunt Jessie's stay.

The boys become "girls" in boisterous fashion with their individual peculiarities. As the plot unfolds, tension builds, and several times the secret is almost revealed when a loud, meddling neighbor, Mrs. Wattles demands payment for the bay window she accuses "Jesse" of breaking; Phyllis Wattles, her daughter visits "Vivian" to continue their romantic interest in one another; and Vivian, dressed as boy, sprints through the living room, is spotted by Aunt Jessie, but hurriedly explained by Mildred as the plumber.

Matters proceed successfully, but in comic fashion, until Vivian is discovered in boy's clothes by Aunt Jessie. Realizing the game is up he tells all, but obtains promise from his aunt not to tell Mildred or Elmer.

Vivian's sixteenth birthday dawns bright and happy for the family. However, Mildred's discovery of a note left by Aunt Jessie darkens the entire situation. The note reveals that Aunt Jessie has left for England, disinheriting them all because she cannot stand the "girls". "If they had been boys, it might have been different," she writes. Complete despair reigns until Aunt Jessie's sudden reappearance, ultimate reconciliation, and renewed happiness.

The entire cast, the director, Mr. George Justus, the production staff, and the committees all helped to make the play a magnificent success.

The Senior Class Play, entitled "Our Girls", was an hilarious comedy featuring boys masquerading as girls.

Elmer Lovejoy, played by J. Bowles, tensely awaits the $5000 from Aunt Jessie for his business.

L. Schultz, as Mildred Lovejoy, contemplates the problem of the "girls" masculinity.

PROM ROYALTY

Queen - Linda Ross

King - Randy Gustafson

"Under the Magnolias" provided a luxuriant setting for the Junior-Senior Banquet and Prom held May 14. The auditorium was simply yet elegantly decorated to follow the theme. The center of the floor was graced with a huge magnolia tree, bursting with pink flowers and hung with Spanish moss. Its branches extended over the entire dance floor from the dining area to the rustic well which furnished "mint julip" to the guests.

The Banquet entertainment boasted a medley of Southern folk songs by the "Natchez songbirds" - Rosemary Mankin, Debby Pence, Joyce Anderson, and Marjean Regier. Special memorandums by Barbara Zelif and Mr. Micheli's cherished words on character impressed all.

Tommy Morgan and his combo filled the air with dance music which floated from a quaint gazebo.

The stage created a distinguished Southern aura of splendor; a white-pillared mansion was the background for the most exciting event of the evening, the crowning of the King and Queen. These honors were vested upon Linda Ross and Randy Gustafson, who were royally attended by Linda Schultz, Mike Newman, Anne Whitney, and Tom Smith.

Under the gazebo was the Tommy Morgan combo, which furnished the music. Everyone enjoyed sitting in the garden next to the dance floor, where they could watch the events of the evening.

Debby Pence and David Waldron make a perfect setting near the wishing well.

Everyone enjoyed dancing under the romantic setting of the magnolias.

Onward and Upward to Greater Things.

BACCALAUREATE

Baccalaureate services were held on May 16th, and were conducted by the Aurora Ministerial Association.

Mr. Peterson and Mr. Marsden led the Seniors into the auditorium for this solemn service of worship while Mrs. Pam Allen played the traditional "War March of the Priests". The Rev. Arnold Olsen gave the invocation and benediction; scripture and prayer were given by the Rev. John Mikkelsen. The high school mixed chorus and girl's glee, under the direction of Mr. Joseph Peterson, presented three religious numbers.

"Formula for Success" was the title of the sermon by the Rev. Herschel Dugan. The formula that he suggested was service to mankind with a self-forgetting attitude; only in this way, would it be possible to achieve success and true happiness.

Deanna Herron was Valedictorian.

Linda Schultz was Salutatorian.

Seniors sang their last songs in the school, which were memorial to them.

THE BEGINNING OF THE FUTURE

The beginning of further education and a future life of service--this is commencement. It is not meant to be a sentimental melodrama of the most wonderful years of our lives; these are good years, but looking ahead we see wonders to challenge and beckon us. It is a parting with friends we have known all of our school days; a parting with teachers we have come to respect; a separation from all that is familiar to us. Yet--commencement is an incentive to apply our still meager education to a productive future.

The commencement exercises were indeed impressive to the seventeen-hundred people present on May 18, for the graduation of Aurora high school's largest class. It began with the singing of "The Halls of Ivy" by the Senior vocal group.

The Valedictorian and Salutatorian ad-resses of Deanna Herron and Linda Schultz, respectively, cited ideals and goals for which to strive. The guest speaker, Wilfred W. Nuernberger, Juvenile Court Judge of Lancaster County, emphasized the importance of using our abilities for the good of society. Mr. Nuernberger stressed the point that one is never an educated person; there is always more to be learned.

The time finally came for the receiving of diplomas, presented by Dr. J. W. Hadley. Several people were presented with scholarships including Regents winner, Barbara Zelif, and alternates. Deanna Herron, Karen Madsen, and Shirley Keller were also presented scholarships to the colleges which they intend to enter.

The evening was concluded as the Seniors began their recessional and their commencement.

ANNUAL STAFF

Night work???

It was grueling, yet satisfying; it was work, but usually fun; it meant a few harsh words, but many more thank-you's between members of the combined force which produced this annual.

Annual staff meetings were held quite regularly to "get started" on the monstrous job ahead of us. Finally the deadline was near, and PUSH we did; Linda Meisner, editor, joined the products of each worker, and this yearbook resulted. The workers--Anne Whitney as copy editor, Tom Modorow as photographer and co-editor of the advertising section along with Mike Newman, Randy Gustafson and Gary Goertzen as co-editors of the sports section, Shirley Keller as typist, Linda Shultz as business manager, Pat Goble as assistant editor, and Jim Condon as "blackroom man", breathed a sigh of relief at its completion.

Losing pictures, misplacing copy, and general chaos went hand in hand with meetings. A mood worthy of mention was the uncertainty of completion; we knew it had to be done because we had been entrusted with the huge responsibility of it, but the visualization of it as a complete book was beyond possibility. The only thing now left to say is, "The Annual Staff sincerely hopes that this yearbook will be a treasured reminder of your year of '65.

Shirley's typing was fine until Gus stepped into the picture.

The Student Council accomplished several outstanding activities during the '64-65' school year. Included in these was an attempt to reciprocate in the American Field Service Program. Three dances with live combos were an accent to the year. Other activities conducted were the sale of popcorn at basketball games and the sponsoring of a slouch day, "pusserd day".

The members of the council themselves felt that the most important actions of the year were certain amendments to the constitution which provided for an altered form of election of class representative officers.

This year the popcorn sales were up 5.1 over the previous year, thanks to the help of Wayne Roblee and Rodney Thompson.

A-Club--This organization is the support behind the games that are played throughout the year. The A-Club attempts to unify the athletes into a group which exists as a source of pride to those who become its members. Aside from the three sports--football, basketball, and track, A-Club participates in numerous other outside functions. Throughout the 1964-1965 school year, these athletes coordinated the Homecoming activities, assisted by the Pep Club. Pens were sold as a money-making project, and what enthusiastic salesmen! Perhaps the most important action by the A-Club was the selection, by vote of the boys, of the "Athlete of the Year". Tom Smith received this coveted award.

Y-TEENS HAVE AN EVENTFUL YEAR

Rosemary Mankin and Rita Roblee were installed as President and Vice President for the coming year.

Y-Teens have been engaged in many activities this school year. Sponsoring a Korean orphan was one activity which seemed to be very rewarding. One of the biggest events of the year was the Daddy-Daughter Date Night which was held in February. Y-Teens and their dads enjoyed an evening of fun, complete with singing. A highlight of the evening was a special number by the senior Y-Teen girls and their dads, entitled "Let Me Call You Sweetheart". The delicious banquet was prepared by the Mothers' Council; it was served by a group of the senior boys. The evening was thoroughly enjoyed by all. One special treat was Pat Goble's showing slides of her trip with the United States of America Band which toured eastern United States and Canada.

Another important activity of the Y-Teens was the installation service held May 7, 1965 in the auditorium. Mothers of all Y-Teen girls were special guests for the installation of the 1965-1966 slate of officers. New Mothers' Council officers were also installed, and were presented with carnations. Each senior Y-Teen girl received a rose. Following the program, lunch was served by the Y-Teens.

Besides these special events, the Y-Teens hold regular meetings. Each meeting is opened with a short devotional, given by a Y-Teen girl. The business meeting is held. After the business meeting, is the Program. This year there have been many very interesting programs. Some have been entertaining; some informative.

The 1965-1966 Y-Teen officers are as follows: President-Rosemary Mankin, Vice President-Rita Roblee, Secretary-Christi Skinner, Treasurer-Jeanette Palmberg. These officers are to be assisted by the cabinet which consists of Social Chairman-Gail Newman, Program Chairman-Joyce Anderson, Membership Chairman-Joan Wilson, Service Chairman-Judy Davies, Publicity Chairman-Beth Brooks, and Music Chairman-Marjean Regier. Miss French is the sponsor of the Aurora Y-Teens.

HOME ECONOMICS PRESENTS: "THIS IS THE YEAR THAT WAS"

The Future Homemakers of America have as their goal the "building of homes for America's future" where love and happiness prevail. With this vision in sight, F.H.A. attempts to instill the importance of a good home in the minds of its members. They realize that it takes a woman with experience in cooking, organizing, and working to assume the responsibilities of a home and children.

During the year of 1964-1965, F.H.A. met regularly on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month. The officers in charge were Sharin Jensen-President, Ardith Menke-1st Vice President, Marlyn Bailey-2nd Vice President, Linda Reisinger-Secretary, and Ann Wadell-Treasurer. Miss Schurr as their sponsor contributed in the aspect of organization and execution of meetings and special activities. Some of these activities were: U. N. Day Dinner, caroling at the Henderson Children's Home, Mothers' Valentine Tea, and the spring program, "This Was the Year That Was", which was done in conjunction with the Home Economics department. Of importance to the chapter was the fact that seventeen girls received Junior Homemaking Degrees this year. Many of the girls were privileged to attend the State F.H.A. Convention and Officer Leadership Workshop in Lincoln in the spring.

Earning to live
Living to serve."

This is the motto of the Future Farmers of America; the first aim and purpose of the organization further strives to exemplify its ideals: "To develop competent, aggressive, rural, and agricultural leadership."

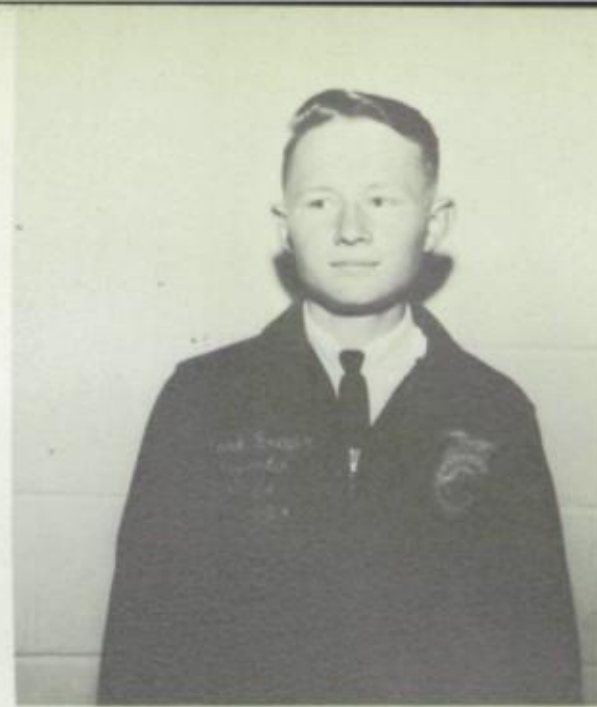

At the beginning of each new year, the chapter sets up a program of work with specific goals in the areas of community service, cooperation, scholarship, conduct and obedience, supervision of farming, recreation, leadership, state and national activities, and public relations. The diligence of this year's chapter paid off, as it received a superior chapter rating.

SOCIETY FOR ACADEMIC ACHIEVEMENT

The S.A.A. is an international honor society founded in 1959 at Quincy, Illinois, by Kiwanis and medical organizations. It is dedicated to motivate youth to achieve academic excellence and to secure a college education and to win the cold war. Community organizations are sponsors of these programs; the Rotary Club is Aurora's sponsor. The S.A.A. is the high school counterpart of Phi Beta Kappa, the great collegiate honor society.

Society for Academic Achievement memberships are granted annually not to exceed ten percent of the boys and ten percent of the girls in the graduating classes. The minimum requirement for students is 100 points which must be accumulated in the seven semesters preceding the last senior semester. Points are awarded according to the courses taken, whether they be strictly academic courses or non-academic courses. More points are given for an "A" than for a "B". A total of 125 points secured by a student will give him the inscription of cum laude on his award certificate. This award is significant because of the stimulus it gives students to achieve a higher level of achievement in courses that are of the most importance.

"Education is man's most priceless possession, for no one can take it away from him." Many potential leaders have refused the opportunities offered or have not been challenged to move ahead. The S.A.A. emphasizes the importance of education to meet the standards and high purposes our nation must achieve. Stimulus, challenge, and an education which will bring personal fulfillment and supply service to our country.

What has it meant to be a senior, for this to be the end of everything you do as a class? Let us explain what it has meant to the Class of 1965, and we hope it will mean the same for you. We've packed lots of memories in our four years at Aurora, enough to last a lifetime it would seem; yet we expect great things of us and our classmates because we realize that this has been the basis of our dreams.

There have been many events for the memory book. Freshman year brought the new experiences. We, as novices, pitched right in. Remember that Homecoming display that we actually thought would win. This was the first for many things: games, dances, organizations. We thought everything was great except finals and were quite ready to embark on our Sophomore year. As Sophies, we made a valiant attempt to redeem the previous Homecoming farce. Our efforts proved victorious with a rocket that challenged the telephone wires. We had a large representation in our first try at glee clubs. Of this we were duly proud. We had another great year in band and sports: Central Ten Champions, ranked in the State Top Ten; basketball brought District runner-up and there was a District Championship and four new records in track. All in all, this was a great year with leaders ahead we shall never forget. As Juniors we presented our first play, "The Spiral Staircase". Sports again ranked important; in football, a State rating of "10", and in track a ranking of "8". In May came the Prom, an experience we will always cherish. "Debutante's Dream" seemed more like a nightmare until the end, when we all had a wonderful time. With the processing of the Class of 1964, we became Seniors of Aurora High School. Great responsibility rested on our shoulders, and we were glad to accept it and do our best. The band finally received an Ak-sar-ben superior and vocal music excelled. In basketball we ranked fourth in the State. Track season brought the State Championship in Class B. The Senior play, entitled "Our Girls", must be considered successful. Not everything can be put in writing, not the toil, the trouble, the tears, not the joys, the memories, the glories that have been tied up in these years. It is for us, as individuals to remember these things for ourselves and never forget everything we have accomplished as the Class of 1965. So, as we started down the aisle, we knew that we would always remember what we have meant to each other as classmates, and as the dearest of friends.

CLASS OF '66

These were the leaders of the Junior Class:

President: Dave Waldron
Vice President: John Henthorne
Secretary: Jeanette Palmberg
Treasurer: Pat Goble

The Junior year is perhaps the most eventful year of all; at least it is the busiest, thanks to numerous class meetings in preparation for several big events.

Homecoming preparations began the year, followed by the choosing of class ring as a momentum of all the years in high school. The style chosen was an oval setting, different from that of any class previous to it. The Junior play signified more deliberation; "Bull In a China Shop" was a great success and packed the auditorium beyond expectations.

The Prom and Banquet climaxed the year and meant hours of toil and one very rewarding and enjoyable evening. "Under the Magnolias" displayed the creativity of the Junior Class.

SOPHOMORES

The result of hours of labor and fun.

The enthusiastic sophomore class plunged into all phases of school life this year. Completing their second year of high school, the class was represented in almost every activity. Some of the boys were participants in football, basketball, and track. They were also members of A-Club and F.F.A. Girls of the class participated in Y-Teens, F.H.A., and Pep Club, one of them acting as a cheerleader. Members of the class also took part in band, vocal music, dramatics, and Student Council.

Class elections at the onset of the year yielded the following class leaders: Judy Davies, president; Byron Herbig, vice-president; and Byron Paschke, secretary-treasurer. Student Council representatives chosen to represent the class were Cathi Stuchlik, Gail Newman, Bill Patterson, and Tom Darbro with Kathy Harling and Gary Penner as alternates.

The sophomore class also took part in the Homecoming festivities; by using broom handles and chicken wire they constructed a float with the theme: "Let's Make Suckers of Them."

Academic achievement was not slighted by the class either, as many were honored at Honor's Convocation and ten students met the qualifications for membership into the Borealis Chapter of the National Honor Society.

CLASS OF '68

A fun-filled year would describe the year for freshmen. It meant many new experiences and many more new people to meet. To start the year successfully, the class elected as their officers a trio of--Tom Ediger as President, John Jasnowski as Vice President, and Vernon Webb as Secretary and Treasurer.

The Freshmen seemed to have what it took; they put together the winning Homecoming float. It displayed a huge football and the tip of a boot poised to kick-off.

The Junior High football team, which is led by Freshmen, made for themselves an undefeated record. Basketball, too, left them undefeated and titled as a class with many good athletes.

One event which ranked highest to its participants was the serving of the Prom Banquet. Sixteen freshmen with top scholastic averages were chosen and costumed as servants in a large southern mansion. Tom Ediger, Vernon Webb, John Jasnowski, John Kropp, Mark Mikkelsen, Homer Peters, Kirk Vetter, Loren Danhauer, Beth Brooks, Jane Daniel, Marilyn Akerson, Gerda Schmidt, LaRuth Peters, Georgeen Cain, JoAnne Nunnenkamp, and JoLynn Garris were those chosen.
